REAL AND BOGUS

PROHIBITIONISTS

At 11 Saturday night 8th, all the whiskey factories in Kentucky and elsewhere, exclusive of moonshine stills, shut down till after the war. This may mean for years and it may be forever. At any rate we hardly expect to see the legal distilling of intoxicating liquors ever resumed again. And real prohibitionists will say "Amen and Amen!" The political pest will want to keep up the agitation.—Stanford Interior-Journal.

The "real prohibitionists" in Kentucky, to which the Interior Journal refers, are the ones who have been responsible for the enactment of prohibition laws at Frankfort, and who have urged the people to vote out saloons when those laws were applied to "wet" cities and counties.

The "real prohibitionists" are the men who fought for the first county unit law, who subsequently secured the adoption of amendments to that law, making it more effective; and who have stood for every advanced step of temperance legislation which has been offered in the state.

The "real prohibitionists" among members of Congress from Kentucky are those who supported the Webb-Kenyon law, and other temperance measures before that body. The "real prohibitionists" are

MEN, NOT MONEY

Maj. Gen. Joseph E. Buha, commandant at Camp Meade, Md., and former United States military representative at Berlin, said that not money, but men are the power which this country must put forward to beat Germany.

"Germany has reached the limit of her man power," he said. "Unless she can keep her yearly losses under 600,000, which is the strength of her annual recruiting, she cannot hope to win. At present her losses are 800,000 a year. You cannot beat Germany with a ton of gold and you cannot choke a German with a ten-dollar bill. It is the men and women mobilized that will do it. Germany made a miscalculation as to the length of the war. Her food-stuffs are waning and hungry stomachs lead to revolution."

CANTRILL GOES TO BAKER ABOUT SOLDIERS' VOTE

Secretary of War Baker has been asked by Representative J. Campbell Cantrill to issue an order permitting all Kentucky soldiers who are in Kentucky on November 6, next, to return to their respective counties on that day so that they may vote in the regular fall election. Under the laws of Kentucky it is necessary for the voter to be present in person at the polls to cast his vote. Cantrill's action is in line with a resolution adopted at a recent

the men, who, having successfully routed the saloon from 106 out of 120 counties in the Commonwealth, now seek the submission and adoption of a constitutional amendment which will exclude it from the remaining fourteen.

The "real prohibitionists" are those who support temperance measures from principle and not expediency; who would rather be on the right side of a moral question in advance of public sentiment, than to catch the tail of a political band wagon, after having always carried water on the other shoulder, and then want a front seat.

We are not sitting in a judgment upon the Interior-Journal to declare what kind of a prohibitionist it is, but among some public men, whose records are perhaps better known, the people can separate the true from the false as distinguishing day from night.—Elizabethtown News.

Can You Guess Her Name?

Hand your guess in at The Tabb Wednesday night, Oct. 3, between 7 and 8 o'clock. A week's pass to each of three lucky guessers.

An Unusually Interesting Story.

The story of "The Hidden Children," Metro wonder-play co-starring Harold Lockwood and May Allison, which will be shown at The Tabb Theatre, Friday, Oct. 5th, is founded on an old Indian custom of "hiding children." Two women unknown to each other, in the early history of the nation, decide to make of their babies "hidden children," in accordance with the old Indian custom of giving children to foster-parents until maturity. A girl and a boy thus "hidden," when informed of the truth, returned to their people were expected by marrying to bring a fresh spirit into the tribe.

How these two babies—a girl and a boy—finally grown to young manhood and womanhood, meet and love each other and the many interesting incidents and adventures connected with their careers, make a most in-meeting of the State Democratic Central and Executive Committees. The resolution was introduced by Charles M. Harriss, who forwarded a copy to Cantrill.

Writing to Harriss, Cantrill states that he is in hearty sympathy with the resolution. He states that the soldiers should not be disfranchised because of patriotic service to the nation, and adds:

"In order that our boys in Kentucky may vote in the coming election there is but one course to pursue and that is the one which you have outlined in your resolution, and I will earnestly request the Secretary of War to carry out your views."

People of means and good taste may make their homes perfect dreams of beauty, but they cannot make them too beautiful, as long as the comfort and happiness of the inmates are sought and promoted. Surely money cannot be expended to a better purpose than in making and adorning a home for one's self and loved ones and furnishing it with all that is calculated to foster in the inhabitants thereof of love of home, as well as a love of the true and beautiful and the good; and even poor people will best secure their own happiness by toiling and saving to acquire and embellish homes for themselves. There is a pleasure that is rare, rapturous and absorbing, and love of home is as noble and ennobling of feeling as can still the human soul.

testing and entertaining story.

In support of Mr. Lockwood and Miss Allison in this play are many big players. The part of Mayaro, the Indian warrior, is played by Henry J. Hebert. Mr. Hebert had a brilliant stage career before coming to the screen, supporting such stars as William Gillette, Thomas A. Wise and E. H. Sothern. Lester Cuneo, who was recently drafted and called to the national army, plays Lieut. Boyd of Morgan's Colonial Riflemen. Mr. Cuneo appeared in many prominent stage productions before going into picture work. He played in Selig and Essanay features before joining Metro. Other well known players in the cast are Lillian Hayward, Lillian West, George MacDaniel and Howard Davies.

"Doug." Fairbanks in His First Art-craft Production.

Douglas Fairbanks, who has with in the past several months won his way to popularity equalling if not exceeding the popularity of Charlie Chaplin, and who recently went from Triangle to Artercraft, has just completed his first subject for that company. "In Again—Out Again" is the title of the initial Fairbanks-Artercraft release by Anita Loos, the clever little authoress of many of "Doug's" screen hits. "In Again—Out Again" will be the attraction at The Tabb, Sat., Oct. 6th.

The picture presents various new departures in the way of humorous incidents of the Fairbanks variety together with a rapid-fire theme which will keep the audience on edge from start to finish. The story has to do with the capers of a energetic youth who falls in love with a pretty maid from the Jersey side of the Hudson river and contrary to the general rule, finds it more difficult to get into jail than to get out of it.

Undoubtedly the most popular screen star among the male contingent, "Doug" Fairbanks immediately wins the support of anyone who views his work, through sheer personality. The Fairbanks smile is known from coast to coast and his distribution of good cheer, coupled with his unusual type of comedy which although widely imitated can never be duplicated, makes him a distinct figure in the cinema world.

MAY FIT DUTCH SOLDIERS WITH WOODEN-SOLED SHOES

Consul Frank M. Mahin, at Amsterdam, has made the following report:

The commander in chief of the Dutch Army notifies the corps commanders that an experiment is to be made with wooden soles for shoes, in consequence of the increasing advance in the price of leather.

For the experiment, 5,000 pairs of shoes will be made; 2,000 are now ready. The wooden soles will be on new shoes, each pair having an extra set to replace worn-out soles.

The wooden soles are first soaked in water to increase their flexibility.

When a definite judgment of the experiment can be formed, and if it is found feasible, it will be extended on a large scale.

LA FOLLETTE'S SPEECH USED BY GERMANS

Speeches made by Senator La Follette and President Townley of the Nonpartisan league are being widely circulated throughout South America by the pro-German propagandists there, according to John Barrett, directing-general of the Pan-American union. The object is to make it appear "that a large element of Americans in the Central West and among the farmers is opposed to the Government and sympathetic with Germany."

Don't laugh at the girl with a freckled face. She probably has a clear conscience—a rare article these days.

At Last—A One-Adjustment Cream Separator

BEFORE you buy any cream separator, come in and look at the Primrose. One adjustment is all that is necessary to keep it in perfect operating condition at all times. This adjustment is a simple one for keeping the bowl at the correct height—an adjustment that you or your wife can safely make, whenever it's necessary.

The adjustment is made from the outside of the separator by either raising or lowering the bearing containing the hardened steel point, upon which the spindle revolves. A slight turn with a screwdriver, perhaps once a year, does the work. The Primrose is a well-constructed, close-skimming, durable cream separator. It will make a saving of $10.00 to $15.00 per cow in your herd every year. It is made in four sizes to separate 350 to 850 pounds of milk per hour, or from about 40 to 98 gallons. Ask for a catalogue giving a complete description, or, come in and look over the Primrose yourself.
